DEPARTMENT OF GEOGRAPHY

Guest Lecture: Cyber Security and its Threats

Date: 21st January, 2020

Report: Department of geography arrange guest lecture on 'Cyber Security and Threats' dated 21st January, 2020 at 11:00 am. This guest lecture, chief guest was Mr. Shriniwas Mehstre, Chairman LBP Private Limited, Satara and the president of this programme was Mr. Ashokrao Navale, trustee Jaywant Prathisthan Humgaon and Dr. M.B. Waghmode, Principal of our college.

Dr. M.B. Waghmode was facilitate chief guest of this programme Mr. Shriniwas Mehstre and President Mr. Ashokrao Navale. Mr. Shriniwas Mehstre says in his Power Point Presentation various threats of the cyber and how we secure of this threats. Examples of common types of security threats include phishing attacks that result in installing malware that infects your data, failure of a staff member to follow data protection protocols that cause a data breach, or even nature's forces that takes down your company's data headquarters, disrupting access.

And he discuss on various types of the cyber threats like, Viruses are designed so that they can be easily transmitted from one computer or system to another. Often sent as email attachments, viruses corrupt and co-opt data, interfere with your security settings, generate spam, and may even delete content. Computer worms are similar; they spread from one computer to the next by sending themselves to all of the user's contacts and subsequently to all contacts' contacts. Trojans. These malicious pieces of software insert themselves into a legitimate program. Often, people voluntarily let Trojans into their systems in email messages from a person or an advertiser they trust. As soon as the accompanying attachment is open, your system becomes vulnerable to the malware within. Bogus security software that tricks users into believing that their system has been infected with a virus. The accompanying security software that the threat actor provides to fix the problem causes it. The adware tracks your browsing habits and causes particular advertisements to pop up. Although this is common and often something you may even agree to, adware is sometimes imposed upon you without your consent. Spyware is an intrusion that may steal sensitive data such as passwords and credit card numbers from your internal systems. A denial of service (DOS) attack occurs when hackers deluge a website with traffic, making it impossible to access its content. A distributed denial of service (DDOS) attack is more forceful and aggressive since it is initiated from several servers simultaneously. As a result, a DDOS attack is harder to mount defenses against it. Phishing attacks are social engineering infiltrations whose goal is to obtain sensitive data: passwords and credit card numbers incorrectly. Via emails or links coming from trusted companies and financial institutions, the hacker causes malware to be downloaded and installed. SQL injections are network threats that involve using malicious code to infiltrate cyber vulnerabilities in data systems. As a result, data can be stolen, changed, or destroyed. Man-in-the-middle attacks involve a third party intercepting and exploiting communications between two entities that should remain private. Eavesdropping occurs, but information can be changed or misrepresented by the intruder, causing inaccuracy and even security breaches. Rootkit tools gain remote access to systems without permission and can lead to the installation of malware and the stealing of passwords and other data.

Lastly he told the how you save yours to these various threats. And fallowed the strict instruction to handle your personal computer and mobiles. Dr. M.B. Waghmode delivered his president speech. And the end of this programme Mr. Shankar Gejage, department of history says vote of thanks.

ONE DAY WORKSHOP

COMMUNICATION ETHICS IN THE AGE OF ICT
Under Lead College Scheme

11th February, 2020

REPORT

Introduction

In the race of different telecom companies declaring their cheap internet data plans with free calling, communication on cell phones and smartphones has become affordable even to people of lower social strata. People have got easy access to a huge repository of information which is updated and added continuously. Social media is one of the outcomes of these discoveries where people get connected very easily and share their thoughts about a certain social issue. This is a boon of the modern science. Though science always warns us about misuse of the information as well as technology, the awareness is too low.

Among the users of the new technology for different types of communication, there are people of all the age groups from different social and educational background. Almost 95% users are not aware of the minor security measures they need to adapt for effective and secure communication. It is this need which makes us think about changing ethics of communication in the age of ICT. This workshop was organised with this purpose to create awareness about use of ICT and its connection with communication.

Inauguration

The workshop was inaugurated by honourable Principal Dr. M. B. Waghmode in the auspicious presence of Dr. B.S. Lokade, Dr. Vinod Pawar, Dr. S. V. Dhonde, Coordinator, Lead College Cluster, Prof. S. A guest lecture was organised by the Department of English under Lead College Scheme on 18th March, 2021. The resource person for the lecture was Dr. Ujjwala Tathe, Associate Professor, Department of English, Mahila college, Karad. The topic for the lecture was "Challenging Oldness: A Critical Appraisal of Santiago in The Old Man and the Sea". The guest lecture was conducted in the online mode on Zoom Meeting Platform. Dr. Pramod Ghatage, Principal, Amdar Shashikant Shinde Mahavidyalay, Medha was the Chairperson for the Programme.

Dr. Dnyandeo Kale introduced the topic of the lecture and also the Resource person on the occasion.

Dr. Ujjwala Tathe made a powerpoint presentation full of animations and relevant pictures. She unravelled the novel so effectively that the theme of the lecture got justified. She elaborately explained how Santiago, the old man and the protagonist of the novel proved his might and mantle challenging his age with tremendous determination. The kind of taunts passed and treatment given to him hurt his self-respect. To regain the lost respect, he undertook the mission in which he caught a Merlin alone. His struggle lasted for three days and nights but at last the fish gave up and the old man won the battle of self-respect.

Pictures in the presentation were so relevant that they simplified the complexities in the theme to make it simple.
